

Sure, let me create a 5-day memorable itinerary for your trip to Paris:

Day 1: Dive into History and Architecture

- Morning: Begin your day visiting the iconic Eiffel Tower. Keep some time aside to take a tour of the monument and also for appreciating the view from the top.
- Afternoon: Enjoy a relaxing lunch at a riverside restaurant. Get a taste of Parisian life and cuisine at 'Chez Francis' which provides a direct view of the Eiffel Tower.
- Evening: Walk down Rue Saint-Dominique, a lively street full of boutiques, cafes, and boasting an unbeatable view of the Eiffel Tower. Conclude the day with a wine-and-cheese picnic in the Champ de Mars park, right in front of the Eiffel Tower.

Day 2: Monuments and Museum Day

- Morning: Visit the Musée d'Orsay to appreciate the vast collection of masterpieces from artists like Monet and Van Gogh.
- Afternoon: Stroll over to Musée de l'Orangerie, home to Monet's Water Lilies. Then have lunch at 'Le Nemours', located near the Palais Royal.
- Evening: Discover the architectural beauty of Notre-Dame Cathedral. Enjoy dinner at 'La Truffière', a charming eatery offering French gastronomy.

Day 3: Luxury and Nightlife

- Morning: Spend the day in the upscale district of Champs-Élysées, starting with shopping at the famous designer stores and local boutiques.
- Afternoon: Take a late lunch at 'Maison Ladurée', famous for its macarons. Then, visit the Arc de Triomphe and enjoy the panoramic view of Paris.
- Evening: Experience a show at Moulin Rouge and have dinner in the neighborhood, I recommend 'Le Bouillon Chartier', known for its Art Nouveau interiors and traditional French food.

Day 4: A Royal Experience

- Morning and Afternoon: Plan a day trip to the Palace of Versailles. It will consume majority of your day but will be worth the experience. Lakeside restaurant 'La Petite Venise', located in the gardens, is a good choice for lunch offering Italian cuisines. Reserve your spot in advance to avoid last-minute hassles.
- Evening: Get back to the city and enjoy a quiet dinner with a view. 'Les Ombres' is an elegant choice with stunning views of the Eiffel Tower.

Day 5: Off the Beaten Path

- Morning: Start the day by exploring the artistic neighborhood of Montmartre. Highlights include the Sacré-Cœur Basilica and the iconic artist square, Place du Tertre.
- Afternoon: Enjoy a hearty lunch in one of the local cafés of Le Marais. Post lunch, discover the historic houses, fashionable stores, and the Picasso Museum in the district.
- Evening: Finish the trip on a romantic note with a dinner cruise on the Seine River. Companies like 'Bateaux Mouches' offer luxury dining while cruising past iconic landmarks.

Travel Tips:

- Tickets to attractions like the Eiffel Tower, Louvre, and Moulin Rouge can sell out fast. Purchase tickets online to avoid long queues.
- For Versailles, it's worth booking a guided tour to understand the historic importance and also to bypass the lines.
- The city is pedestrian-friendly, but to spare from too much walking, use the Metro system, which is fairly easy to navigate.
- Take a good rest before and after your long flight to avoid jet lag.

Enjoy your Parisian adventure!
